

【Shenzhen Metro Line 4】 Eat and Chill

Discover a variety of delicacies in Shenzhen!

Shenzhen is a vibrant and creative city, which is embodied by Shuiwei's Cultural Block 1368. Located near Huanggang Park in Futian District, it is a Cantonese-style commercial district transformed from an old factory. There are ten intersecting alleys, each with a different theme and its own character. Boasting interesting shops and artworks, such as a detective bar, Baesan and MOOCUP COFFEE, it is a great spot to experience the local food culture and artistic atmosphere. Anyone can easily spend a day relaxing here.

Looking for a great place in Shenzhen that has everything you need? Want to have a good meal after playing? If your answer is yes, visit In Joy! In Joy is a major shopping centre which combines fashion, leisure, entertainment and dining. On Level B1 and B2, the famous Xiaomeilin Food Hall offers a variety of local snacks and international cuisines such as Cantonese, Sichuan, Thai and Japanese dishes. Try Miyilian's home-made yogurt, roujiamo, and guokui. Also try the Hardee's burgers, which can no longer be found in Hong Kong. And the most popular must be Yang's Dumplings. Crispy on the bottom, with a thin wrapper and a generous and juicy meat filling, their pork buns are just perfect to keep your mouth watering.

After dessert, head to the Hongshan 6979 Commercial Center, which is conveniently connected to the Hongshan station, making it a great spot for food and drink, fun and posting. Local singers and bands perform in the open-air area of the mall from time to time, playing a variety of music from Cantonese songs to rap, from folk to rock. There is always something that moves your heart. If you want to relax and listen to the live band, buy a drink and watch the show from the stairs, or go to the camping-style wine stalls on the square and get immersed in booze and music.
