

【Shenzhen】 Fairy Lake Botanical Garden

Red leaves & glinting lake in harmony!

During the autumn and winter months in Shenzhen, the bald cypresses in Fairy Lake Botanical Garden are also great for social media photos. In the garden, bald cypress trees are mainly planted in Cyathea Lake, Aquatic area and Jade Belt Bridge. Every year, from December to January, the red leaves along the lake transform the landscape into a soft, romantic scene. The russet cypresses, like drifting clouds, are mirrored on the surface of lake. The usually tranquil waters take on a poetic charm as the reflections of the bald cypresses add an extra layer of beauty, attracting numerous photography enthusiasts and tourists in search of the perfect photo spot.

As the first rays of morning sun filter through the treetops and scatter across the shimmering lake, they blend perfectly with the fiery red leaves, creating an enchanting autumn scene. Strolling along the paths of the park, you will be mesmerised by the spellbinding atmosphere of swaying tree shadows and fluttering red leaves.

Known as the “Forest Oxygen Bar for Shenzhen People”, the Botanical Garden offers fresh air and a quiet and elegant environment. Apart from enjoying the beauty of the red leaves from a close distance, you can also learn more about the plants by visiting the major conservation areas. The garden is a haven of diverse plant species and intricate landscapes, offering a wealth of surprises and exploration fun. As a fitting finale to your trip, consider visiting the Hongfa Temple, a renowned Buddhist temple nestled in the garden.
